TO COBBLE UP KOREA

Japanese Imperial diet where the destiny of Korea was decided. Lower left, emperor of Japan; lower right, emperor of Korea, and upper right, crown prince of Korea.

Many of the most radical advocates of Korean independence admit that such a step may be taken at any moment and will meet with little opposition from Koreans. "The Japanese" of the "Hermit Kingdom" has been conducted so quietly and yet with such a determination on the part of Japan that with the strong military showing now in Korea resistance to the policy would be suicide on the part of those offering it.

If blue blood means anything Yi Chok ought to be one of the strongest monarchs on earth. There is no doubt but that he is the weakest. Nevertheless, his veins are streaked with a certain fluid which began its royal flow a hundred years before Columbus discovered America. Many generations before Shakespeare was born, a hundred years before the first Bible was printed and 200 years before Luther stirred up Germany with his preaching the ancestors of this young man sat upon the imperial throne and governed their millions of cream-faceted, almond-eyed subjects.

Yi Chok is the thirty-first ruler of the present dynasty, which began to reign in 1392. His father was Yi Hwang, the man whom the Japanese forced to abdicate in July 1907, and his mother was the famous queen shortly after the close of their war with China.

To the Voters of Rock County

I wish to thank you for the interest you are showing in my candidacy for the office of Register of Deeds.

If you are not familiar with my qualifications I will say that I began school teaching and left this work to accept a position in a railway office, where I worked ten years as bookkeeper and agent.

I have held my present position as town clerk for the past ten years, and during the last four years have spent the greater part of each year working as bookkeeper for the Rock County Sugar Co., my farm requiring the balance of my time.

This office experience will undoubtedly prove a valuable help to me in discharging the duties of Register of Deeds should I be elected to that office.

Let me urge you to attend the Primary Election Tuesday, September 6, 1910, and ask you to call the attention of your friends to the importance of voting on Primary Day.

W. B. DAVIS,

Town Clerk Town of Janesville.

What the Evansville Enterprise says:

Experience and efficiency in office work are strong recommendations for a candidate for the office of Register of Deeds. W. B. Davis, who is a candidate for that office on the Republican ticket, is a clean, honest gentleman and his ten years experience in office work renders him especially fitted for that position. The strong endorsement he received from the voters of the county two years ago makes him in the logical candidate, and he should receive the support of the party at the primaries.

Welcome A. O. H.

The Big Store extends its freedom to all who may be attending the A. O. H. convention. If you are a stranger and you live conveniently to Janesville or even if you don't, the mail is quick, we say that it is for your interest to know that such a store exists in Southern Wisconsin. All newcomers are very agreeably surprised at the immensity and completeness of the stock shown by The Big Store.

It is certainly something worth knowing that of all goods within reach of the large mass of people we show assortments that compare favorably with anything to be found in the very largest cities.

Don't fail to visit the carpet and curtain and bedding department on the second floor. We devote about 11,000 sq. feet to this department. This is the opportune time to select rugs or curtains while our showing of the fall styles is so complete.

FURS

This week we are devoting much window space to the display of the season's best creations in Coats, Muffs, Scarfs, etc. These were all selected with great care and made especially for us in the best possible manner. We pride ourselves on our showing of furs. We think you will agree with us after seeing our garments that we have reason to be elated.

THE LATEST MODELS IN NEW FALL SUITS AND COATS

are now being shown here. The first showing of advanced fall styles in all of these garments were NOT made under STRIKE CONDITIONS and we not only bought them 10% to 15% LESS than we could buy the same garment for today, but the BEST of WORKMANSHIP enters into all of our garments. The Big Store's FORE-HANDED POLICY of BUYING enables us to always show uniformly good qualities. The merchant who waits to buy goods until about the time he is ready to sell them has to take what he can get. It would be impossible for us to do this and "Keep the Quality Up."

Young Men's Fall Hats

This is where you will see the new shapes as they come out. $3.00 and up.

You Are Owned By the Thoughts You Cultivate

If you cultivate thoughts that tend toward success and usefulness, you will join the army of the progressives and soon become a success and a leader. Your training should be along lines that are broad and useful. The things you can't do are the things that will keep you down. You can measure your progress by your MASTERY of the things connected with the business you follow. And YOU alone are responsible for what you can't do—for what you don't know. The most practical knowledge is what you need, the kind that the world is paying big salaries for, and the kind that is brought within easy reach by the

W. W. DALE, President.

Southern Wisconsin Business College

Our courses take you through any line of work you wish to master just as you would learn by actual experience, but in much less time and with much less expense. We prepare young people to occupy positions of responsibility that pay the high salaries.

One young man quit school in the eighth grade, went to work in a factory for three years. He later finished our business course and is today after less than two years' experience drawing a salary of $30 a week.

Another young man who called on us today tells us he has been made Secy. Treas. of the Company for whom he was stenographer less than 2½ years. His salary is now $140 a month.

We could cite hundreds of cases of young men and women who came to us with what would be considered a meager education, who are now in splendid positions or doing business for themselves. If you have the desire to succeed you will find our courses easily within your reach.

Chartier Shorthand

can be learned by a student of the sixth or seventh grade. It is so simple that even a child can learn it. No other system possesses such merit. We have tried other systems and proved that the ordinary student requires more than double the time to master them.

Rowe's Bookkeeping and Accountancy can be learned by any student of ordinary intelligence. All our work is so scientifically arranged and handled by expert teachers, that the work is brought down to any average student.

By Our System of Individual Instruction

each student is enabled to advance as rapidly as possible without having to wait for or keep up with any other student. Our courses are so thorough and comprehensive that we KNOW your services will be in demand when you have completed our work.

WE WILL REFUND TUITION

to any student, who after taking one month's trial in our College says that he is not satisfied with our courses and wishes to stop. WE WILL ALSO PLACE EVERY GRADUATE OR REFUND TUITION. Every good school can afford to do this and should do it.

room. Don't procrastinate. The man who puts off is always the one who fails to seize the opportunity. Be a man of the present and prepare to seize your opportunity.

Investigate our College and the opportunities we offer. We employ no solicitors but our President will gladly call by request. Address personally.

It is not too soon to arrange for a good place to board and room or secure a place where you may earn your board and room.

WHAT THE CENSUS MEANS.

One of the privileges that we enjoy as a civilized people is that of paying out large sums for the purpose of taking a national census. This year the cost of this decennial tabulation of the statistics of the nation is approximately $15,000,000. It amounts to a little more than the cost of a battleship, and is sufficient, if otherwise applied, to carry out some really colossal public work, like constructing an artificial harbor, equipping and endowing a great university, or building a national highway. What is there to be gained by taking the census that justifies expending such a sum every ten years?

It enables the American people to take their own measure, to estimate their resources and capabilities, to behold themselves, economically, as it were in a looking-glass, and to feel their power and strength. It enables them to know that the annual product of manufacture in the state of Delaware is a trifle more than $52,000,000 and similar essential facts, without which information the banking, railroad and various construction activities of the country would be merely guesswork and groping in the dark.

The fact that the value of the agricultural products of the United States last year was $8,750,000,000 is of more than academic interest. That value of farm products is the basis of the borrowing power of the American people. It is a certificate of financial responsibility, without which quality it is vain for individual or nation to seek the market-place with intent to do business. Without the power to float a bond issue a nation might as well cancel all its relations with foreign nations, for its power to maintain those relations would be gone. The farmer, manufacturer or merchant who did not know whether his balance was on the side of profit or loss would not long be concerned with a balance on the profit side. The same law governs nations. The census is the balance sheet of the entire people. Crop reporting is census-taking in a specialized form. When it is known that the harvest will be abundant money begins to move throughout the nation and between the nations. The money movement signifies that business is being done. The census-taker, therefore, is the advance agent of prosperity. There is no battleship, harbor or public highway that could be built with $15,000,000 that is nearly so essential to the well-being of the nation as is the census.

An example of a country that did not grasp the importance of a census until recently is China. The casual Chinese, if asked how many people there are in his native city, would reply that they were as numerous as the leaves on the trees, or, perhaps, that nobody could possibly know. The Chinese are a frugal, industrious, saving people; but for years their national credit has tottered, because there was no definite knowledge on which to base an estimate of their earning capacity. The value of the farm products of her wide-extended and carefully tilled domain no one could tell with any degree of certitude. China managed to borrow money from time to time, but the most hazardous expedients had to be resorted to in order to shore up her credit. China, however, is taking a new stand, and some day, before long, her resources, in minerals, in bushels of wheat, and best of all in potential days' work, will be revealed to all men. Then China will be able to sell her four per cents as readily as the American administrator now places Philippine government bonds.

AFRAID OF THE DARK.

Under this caption the Wall Street Journal has the following to say on the present conditions in business and on the market:

"It is never necessary to go more than half way to meet trouble. If the country wants a year of rest from feverish business activity, many of its leading men are doing the right thing to bring it about. It was entirely accidental and rather unfortunate that nature took a hand in the process by making 1910 one of our lean years in some of our leading harvests.

"There are present this summer just about enough disturbing conditions to spell 'Caution' to the experienced merchant and manufacturer, and to discourage new undertakings. Most of the unsettling factors are of artificial origin. Of such are the uncertain merits of a tariff law which called for defense before it had been signed; the cessation of buying and building by railroad heads who are alarmed, or profess to be alarmed, at the discovery that the hitherto tame commerce commission has teeth; and the anticipatory uneasiness incident to approaching pyrotechnic displays from the running board of the political party machines.

"Perhaps it is just as well that business is running along on the second speed; there is less liability of a collision. A twelve-month of moderately good trade, by giving us time to restore too much forgotten habits of thrift and economy, should bring a readjustment that will permit of more healthy growth later."

Voters of the county are most anxiously awaiting the results of primary day to see whether the county will remain loyal to the republican principles that have so long characterized its choice of representatives in the assembly and their vote on the state ticket as well.

Voters who are loyal republicans should not forget that Fairchild represents this form of republicanism and not the "ism" and "ism" of the paid speakers who are campaigning for state in their efforts to win approval for their insurgent colleague for the senatorship.

From the activity of the politician one would surely know that the primary that was near at hand. They are most active now, just like flies around a sugar barrel, and all seeking the same end, endorsement by the "Dear People."

"We are not prudent" is the statement of a Chicago minister who went on the stage and permitted his wife to do likewise and also to wear tights. From all appearances he knows what he is talking about.

President Taft gave the New York political bosses of the old guard type a severe spanking when he wrote his letter to Roosevelt. Meanwhile Sherman will preside at the state convention.

Nicaragua's insurrection is now the government. It is to be hoped that the new leaders will end the internal warfare and give the country peace and protect foreigners who go there to live.

F. Augustus Holme feels that he has enough money now to marry an actress. Some time ago the papers announced that he was broke, but evidently the courts overlooked a few millions of his property.

Roosevelt is now in his element and by Saturday when he reaches Cheyenne he will have discovered that he still hears the "Call of the West," that even Africa could not silence.

In the agreement between Japan and Korea it would seem that Korea did most of the agreeing. The Hon. Mr. Kink is to become a member of the Japanese royal family though, and that helps some.

The Illinois Central is still having a time of it, generally speaking, and when the present investigation is finished there promises to be something interesting to say relative to the road and its management.

W. H. MOORE SERIOUSLY ILL?
Rumor Concerning Railroad Financier Still Wall Street.

New York, Aug. 24.—It is reported that Judge W. H. Moore is seriously ill at his country place at Prida's Crossing. The report cannot be confirmed, though it is declared to be true by some of those who have heard it.

In Wall street it is believed that should anything serious happen to Judge Moore at this time the effect would be far-reaching, as he is credited with having had a strong hand in recent sensational and magnificent developments in the financial district.

Uncle Walt
THE POET PHILOSOPHERBy WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

It is not well to scoff or jeer at other people's joys; the pastime that to you seems queer may please the other boys. One man's amusement in this life is playing dominoes; another fellow beats his wife, and gives his soul to the underworld; and when we scrape him from the streets we weep for him in vain. One fellow thinks it fun to dodge the cops with speeding cars; another likes to go to lodge, where all the passwords are. And all these things I understand, and sympathize with folks who rummage through the blooming land for pleasure and for jokes. But when I watch a statesman try to run an office down, and talk until the fount is dry, and bore the whole blamed town; and when I see him, worn and tired, shuffling round the polls, to find that he's been canned and fired by patriotic souls, I ask such spongers as are near "What sort of men are these, who chase for office year by year? Does such sport really please?"

Heart to Heart
Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

WHY?

Why pain?
Why suffering?

Since the world began the unanswered cries have been wrung from suffering souls.

When you see somebody suffer, from no fault of his own perhaps, you sympathize and philosophize. Why should any one suffer? Why should the innocent suffer for the guilty? You find the only answer in the perfecting of character.

But—
Pain or sorrow comes to you—to YOU. Ah, that's different. Somehow the philosophy does not fit. You do not see the need of perfecting your character. You question the righteousness of your suffering, and it may be, rail against Providence.

Thou foolish one!
Sorrow and suffering are stern teachers, true enough, but you are a dull scholar! Your tears fall on the page of the lesson and you rebel against the discipline of the school. But revolt is useless. You may play truant at times, but you cannot get away from the school.

Aye, foolish one. Why chide the teachers? Face your lesson and learn it! Pass under the rod.

Have you read some of the short stories of the late O. Henry? Well, it turns out since his death that this man at one time in his life was a prison convict. It matters not what his offense may have been—it is now sufficient to say to what heights he had climbed and out of what depths!

It matters not what his suffering was. That it must have been keenly felt those may well know who have sensed the sensitive soul of the remarkable writer.

But out of it all he perfected a rare soul that knew how to companion with other souls through his pen, knew how to bring smiles and cheer and a warm sympathy for the suffering and a genial tolerance for all, and a teaching of wise resignation in affliction.

How? Why?
The furnace of trial through which he passed did not destroy, but only refined, the gold of his genius, and made of him a ministering spirit.

Had this rare man never passed through the ugliness of the chrysalis stage, he never would have come out of it the brilliant butterfly of genius.

We cannot all come up through sorrow to such perfection; but we all may learn, in time, that the bitter cup of life that is offered us may be the very best cup from which we should drink.

Notice to the Voters of Rock County

As I have advertised, I am after the office because "I want it." 1st—For the practical experience and education that comes with the work connected therewith; 2nd—For the financial end of the position; 3rd—For the chance it gives a man to become a trusted servant of the people and if elected, whatever advantages I derive therefrom I will use them to better fit myself to do further service for the county. If I am worthy of your support, remember me at the polls.

A party called the other day for an examination and estimate of probable cost of needed Dental work.

We made a date for his return to begin the work.

He didn't keep the appointment but later he came back, saying that a friend had persuaded him to consult his Dentist.

But he "wouldn't stand for it" when the Dentist gave his prices.

The difference in price was something awful.

I try to make my prices reasonable.

And when my patients see the beautiful work I do for them they know they are getting Value Received in every way.

CONVENTION IS CLOSED TODAY

FINAL SESSIONS OF A. O. H. AND AUXILIARY THIS AFTERNOON.

BANQUET THIS EVENING

Will Be Given by Local Divisions of Order and Auxiliary to Delegates and Invited Guests at Assembly Hall.

Discussions of matters of business, including the reports of the various committees marked the sessions of the convention of the Ancient Order of Unionists in Wisconsin in Eastern hall in this city today. The convention was called to order at ten o'clock and listened to an interesting address by the Rev. Dean Eugene E. Kelley. After the dean's talk, the committees appointed yesterday, on Finance, headed by Matthew Hayes Carpenter, on Insurance, grievances, and the good of the order, each made their separate reports of the work done since the last assembly of the order two years ago.

This afternoon at two o'clock, the principal committee of the convention, the committee on resolutions, of which Hon. James L. O'Connor is the chairman, gave its report. This committee has several strong resolutions, which if approved by the convention, as they doubtless will be, will be great factors in the building up of the order in Wisconsin in the next two years. Later the election of officers for the next two years was held and the meeting place of the next convention was selected. President Joseph P. Callan of Milwaukee seems to be the only one mentioned for the presidency, and he will probably be chosen by acclamation. State chaplain, Rev. E. J. Blackwell, who has served both the A. O. H. and the Ladies' Auxiliary for the past eight years, has expressed a wish not to be reappointed, in order that the honor may be conferred on someone else, and his successor will probably be named by President Callan this afternoon.

Auxiliary Meetings.
The Ladies' Auxiliary of the state order, which is meeting in the room adjoining that of the A. O. H. in Spanish War veterans' hall, yesterday completed the work of organization for work, naming various committees and this morning the committees on by-laws and good and welfare of the order made their reports. The delegates also listened to splendid talks by State Chaplain Blackwell, Rev. Dean E. E. Kelley, and Prof. M. G. Rohan of Marquette college, Milwaukee, who is one of the delegates to the convention. This afternoon the reports of the committees on insurance, grievances, and resolutions were to be heard and officers were to be chosen. The order appreciates the efforts of the present incumbents in office, comprising Mrs. W. T. O'Brien, state president; Mrs. Lawrence Cronin of Janesville, vice president; Miss Mary Kennedy of Milwaukee, state secretary; Mrs. Nellie Blackwell of Racine, state treasurer; Mrs. Margaret of Troy, of Madison, mistress-at-large; and Mrs. Thomas McNeer of Milwaukee, secretary, and it is not likely that any changes will be made.

Banquet Tonight.
Although the business of the convention will be finished this afternoon and the convention officially closed, the delegates and five hundred invited guests of the local division of the A. O. H. will be given a banquet in Assembly hall at eight o'clock this evening. The program for this evening is as follows:

LIVELY RUNAWAY ON WEST MILWAUKEE ST.

Horse Attached to Mail Wagon Makes Wild Dash—Two Occupants of Wagon Escape Serious Injury.

There was an exciting few minutes yesterday afternoon when the horse attached to the wagon which carries the mail to and from the depot made a wild dash for liberty. The start was made on West Milwaukee street and was due to a broken shaft which fell frightening the animal. A man named Cantwell was driving and he was thrown out when the beast turned, injuring himself slightly. Albert Kommett was also in the wagon and as the horse passed near a farmer's wagon with a harness pole sticking out from it, it struck it and tumbled itself safely to the ground. A second later the wagon was broken into pieces and the horse fell injuring itself. Young Kommett's escape was wonderful.

BELOIT MAN WAS ROBBED OF $32

C. E. Woolsey, Returning From Montana, Shared Room With Stranger at St. Charles Hotel.

C. E. Woolsey of Beloit, returning from Montana with a roll of $35 in his jeans, shared a stranger's room at the St. Charles hotel Monday evening and when he got up in the morning $32 in bills and two silver dollars were missing from the pocket of his trousers which had been thrown over the bedpost. He awoke at five o'clock Tuesday morning and noticed that the fellow lodger who, it appears was none other than Walter Busch of Stoughton who had complained to the police the same evening that an Edgerton man robbed him of $10 in the court house park, had taken his departure. He thought nothing of this circumstance until an hour later when he put on his clothes and found the coin missing from the trousers pocket.

Mr. Woolsey complained to the hotel clerk but fearing that his story of a thief who "divided the roll" might not be given credence, went on to the police department. Beloit friends advised him that he had made a mistake and he came up to confer with Chief Appleby last evening. The door of the room was not locked and as it was opened at least once during the electrical storm to Mr. Woolsey's certain knowledge, there is no strong evidence on which to base a suspicion against any particular person.

BELOIT BOY IS IN THREATENED ZONE

Anxiety Felt for the Safety of John Bedford of Line City Who is in Forestry Service.

Beloit, Aug. 23.—Much apprehension is felt here for the safety of John Bedford, son of Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Bedford of this city, who is in the forestry service in the west. Although his territory is not in the fire zone of the Yellowstone park, word just received from him is to the effect that he had received word of a forest fire about forty miles from his headquarters and he was stuck on horseback for the scene of the reported trouble. Until this time there had been no fear, but the latest news has made the young man's parents anxious.

MERKLEY GIRL WAS TAKEN TO BELOIT

Young Woman Who Ran Away From Home a Month Ago Will Not Be Married as She Had Planned.

Etta Christina Merkley, a 17 year old girl from Beloit, was taken in hand by the police last evening and locked up at the station. Chief Quam had notified the local officers that he held a warrant for her arrest on the charge of stealing a bicycle and her parents had been very anxious to locate her since she ran away from home a month ago. She worked for a time in a Madison laundry and afterwards came here and fell into very questionable company. When arrested she gave her name as Katherine Kislager and it was not until her parents came from Beloit that she could be prevailed upon to admit that she was Etta Merkley. It developed that she expected to marry Arthur Culver, a young man employed in the street improvement work, on Saturday, but her parents promptly put a veto on the match. Chief Quam came after the girl this morning. The bicycle which was alleged to have been stolen after borrowing the property from a neighbor was taken in charge by the Beloit officers. It is hardly likely that the larceny charge against her will be prosecuted.

WALDO LUCHSINGER THROWN FROM CAR

Janesville Baggageman on St. Paul Road Met With Serious Accident Sunday Morning.

Waldo Luchsinger who was pitched out of the open doorway of a C. M. & St. P. baggage car at his train was rounding a sharp curve this side of Burlington Sunday morning, is receiving treatment at Mercy hospital for severe injuries about his head and body. He was not missed until the train reached Highland Junction and was in an unconscious condition when found by a searching party that went back over the right-of-way with a hand-car. Nor had he fully regained consciousness when brought from Burlington on Monday. It is said that a cork log which he wears received the brunt of the impact and saved him from much more severe injuries. Mr. Luchsinger lives at 106 North bluff street.

TARIFF REVISION

PRESIDENT IN KEYNOTE DECIDES

UPON A SCIENTIFIC BASIS

Executive to Recommend to Congress That Individual Schedules Be Taken Up Separately—Issues Letter for Campaign Book.

Daventry, Mass., Aug. 24.—A synopsis of the contents of President Taft's keynote letter for the Republican national congressional campaign became known here. The president will favor further revision of the tariff by separate schedule.

The president dwells at length upon the work of the tariff board which has been investigating the cost of living at home and abroad. Summing up what he hopes from this board, the president says that whenever it reports to him facts which in his judgment warrant a revision of any particular schedule, he will recommend such revision in a message to congress.

Has Reply for Critics.

If it is objected that this method of tariff revision is open to the possibility that the attempted revision of one schedule will bring down a flood of amendments which will, in effect, open up the entire tariff law, the president has a reply. He will recommend the adoption of a rule in both houses of congress providing that only the specific schedule that is named shall be reopened and that all amendments not germane to that schedule shall be regarded as out of order.

Meets the Progressives.

In taking this stand in favor of revising the tariff, a schedule at a time, the president is going more than half way to meet the progressives, who have charged that the scheme of revision followed at the special session of congress makes a fair and impartial revision of the tariff impossible and paves the way for deals and deals under which the interests of "big business" are fostered and protected. The move is another step toward harmonizing the party.

A further point in connection with the campaign letter which was pointed out is the fact that it was mailed Monday. The significance of this is that the president has outlined his views on the issues and struck the keynote in advance of the inauguration of a certain distinguished statesman's speaking tour of the west. There can be no charge later that the president was influenced one way or the other by speeches made in the west or by the public sentiment that such speeches may provoke.

Colorado E. took the first heat in 2:07.4 and came back in the second in the remarkably fast time of 2:07.2.

There are on the market a lot of patent fly chasers. Just like most patent stuff, it costs you double money. We have sold different makes from one to two dollars a gallon, yet nothing does better work at any price than this: take one gallon of Cresodol and three gallons of common kerosene, mix as you want it to use, spray or put on with a brush. Keeps off flies, bugs, gnats, is healing, antiseptic, and costs about 45 cents a gallon instead of one dollar or more. Come in, talk to Mr. McKinnis, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, about this or other stock remedies. He can save you half your money. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and Milwaukee streets.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"It is, lived there," pointed out the lady with whom I was driving. "You didn't know him? Why, he was a real prominent man. When he died he had the greatest funeral I ever saw. The flowers were something magnificent. There must have been three or four hundred dollars' worth. It was a grand funeral. I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

With difficulty I repressed a smile.

And then a sigh.

Even into the valley of the shadow we carry the ceremony, the ostentation, and the money attitude of the world.

I think our fashionable weddings, to which we bid, not those few whom we really love and who love us, and to whom such an occasion really belongs, but all the curious gaping crowd of our acquaintance, who come as they would go to a play or any other spectacle, are bad enough, but to have funerals on the same plane is even worse.

"Yes, Harry had a terrible time to get away from his business—you know it's their very bloodiest sin—when I told him we simply had to go to Mr. H's funeral. What would Mrs. H. think if we didn't?" a woman said to me the other day.

What an insult to the dead man to carry formality and punctiliousness and ceremony even to the edge of his grave!

I have written before of the cruelty and uselessness of the average funeral service, harrowing feelings already hurried almost past endurance, and doing no one any possible good.

Today I protest especially against its formality and ceremony—the habit of regarding it as a function which must be attended by all the acquaintances of the dead man and his family.

I do not believe in the old idea that we honor the dead that way. If we really want to do him honor I think we can do it far better by trying to be a bit kinder, a bit more forbearing, a bit less unselfish to our fellowmen whenever we think of him.

I should like to see funeral services completely abolished and a simple commitment service left as the only burial ceremony, but if there are to be funerals, let them be attended only by a man's close friends who come spontaneously and not by obligation.

An unknown poet has expressed just my feelings on this subject. I wonder if they are yours:

When I am dead
I would not have the rude and gaping crowd
Around my grave, and 'mid lamentations loud
Toll of my virtues; and with vain regret Remem'ring my loss, and, leaving me, forget.
But I would have the few of kindly heart,
Who when misfortune came, so nobly did their part,
And off by thoughtful deeds their love expressed;—
These would I have, no more, no less.
When I am dead.

STOCKING MENDER

Holds Torn Part of Hose Taut So
It May Easily Be Darned.

A device to facilitate the labor of those who have many stockings to darn has been designed by a Minneapolis man. It is a holder in which the stocking is held so that part in which the tear is drawn taut and can be darned much easier than ordinarily. One part of this holder is a wire ring with guards rising from it, bent inwardly near their bases. Another ring fits into these curves when spring is placed. The stocking is drawn over the first ring until the torn part appears stretched out inside it. Then the second ring is snapped into place and the stocking held taut, thus permitting of a much easier and stronger darn than can be made over a darn "egg" or a similar device. As will be seen, this apparatus is primarily intended for making repairs to the leg of the hose, though it can also be used in darning holes in the feet. At a pinch it could be used for any work, as it acts on the principle of the wooden rings women use for this purpose.

PERMITS OF SEWING DARN.

THE LEGACY OF LOVE.

(By MARY HENSHALL.)
You imagine that you are a very important person no doubt. If you are in business, you know that the sudden dropping out of your master mind would result in a financial panic—but would it?

Many a man has died and left his affairs in a tangle, which a business woman with no business experience, has unraveled, and untangled by patience and perseverance, and made a better business than even before.

She has just put her woman's wit in place of man's experience, and while he has been missed every day and every hour in her heart and home, his business has prospered.

Mothers feel that they cannot die when their children are young. "Who would take my place?" they ask themselves. No one would fill all the same place, but the child might even be better off than before. Someone without the veil of motherly protection might make good children out of the best—might make unselfish men and women out of very unpromising material.

So it goes through the list of workers and tilters in every class. No one is indispensable. No one fills a place that cannot be filled, save only in the hearts of those who love him. Why then do we so neglect one sphere of action and so devote our lives to the other?

The men or women who create a loving atmosphere wherever life places them are the ones who are missed all the time. Theaching sense of loss is never forgotten when such a one passes away.

We count our successes by the world's measure of value. And the world counts the bank account. We all have a touch of the same reverence for riches, else why do most of us make so much greater effort at entertaining a wealthy friend than when enjoying a visit from some poor country relative?

The latter would enjoy the extra attention. It would leave a warm and happy memory. To the wealthy friend it would mean nothing. No knowledge of the effort made would sweeten the action in that case. It is our own pride that causes us to make the effort and yet—how much greater would be the real reward of loving gratitude should we so exert ourselves to make the visit of the poor country cousin full of joy and delight?

Work for love. That does not mean to neglect the money making. Money is very necessary to health and happiness, but the two may be combined. Do not let your money getting blind you to the joy of the life about you.

The kind word to employees will hold them to you with bonds of love far stronger than can be bought. The man who fails to build up a feeling of loyalty to himself and his interests will not get the best work from his employees. The man or woman who fails to create a loving friendship among the members of church or society will not have the richest blessing of religious or social intercourse.

Society and its friendships are shadow and unworthy when weighed in the balance with the great true friendships.

Loyalty to the interests of another—loyalty to the reputation of a friend—loyalty to yourself—this is part of the wonderful substance out of which is created love. And love is all that lasts when we have passed behind the veil.

WHITE GIVEN SEVERE GRILLING BY DEFENSE

Contradicts Much of Evidence Given in First Browne Bribery Trial—Cuts Sorry Figures.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Representative Charles A. White, whose "confession" forms the basis of the charges of bribery against Minority Leader Lee O'Neill Browne of the general assembly, under a grilling cross-examination by Attorney Forrest for the defense, contradicted much of the testimony which he gave at the first trial and made sworn statements which lay him open to perjury charges and so battered down the state's case that the defense was confident of an early acquittal at the hands of the jury.

White cut a sorry figure on the stand. His memory, which had begun to fail on Monday, went into almost total bankruptcy. He had forgotten almost everything which could have any possible bearing on the case.

Ninety-nine of the questions which were put to him were answered with "I don't remember," and when this failed he evaded direct replies with all kinds of qualifications until Judge Kersten was compelled repeatedly to take part in forcing a genuine reply.

Probably the hardest blow which the state got came when White admitted that almost every statement contained in his letters to Senator Lorimer and to Browne, in which he told of his desperate financial condition and of his plans to sell a story of his legislative experiences were lies. It took a struggle to get White started on this admission. But once he admitted that he told untruths in these letters, he seemed ready to make a clean sweep of it and when the attorneys got through there was scarcely a statement left in any of them which White did not admit to be untrue. At the first trial he swore that most of the first were true.

ENDS HIS LIFE TO FREE WIFE.

Man's Letter Explains Death Opens Way to Better Marriage.

New York, Aug. 24.—Bruno Feder sat in a chair in a room of the Grand Union hotel and fired a bullet into his head so that his wife might be free to marry a man who could give her the luxuries he had been unable to provide. The letter that he left, in which he told why he wished to kill himself, did not read as if he had any particular man in mind; he simply wanted to give his wife an opportunity to marry again and to secure for herself and her three-year-old daughter, Ruth, the good things he had failed to give her.

You Can Be Made Well If You Will Come to the Chiropractors

Every disease known to mankind yields to Chiropractic adjustments. Chiropractic is a science of old truths, the most wonderful aid to mankind in centuries. It's a new science, that analyzes and locates unerring the physical cause of disease, and provides a means of adjusting or removing this cause more promptly, radically and permanently than any other method known at the present time. These men have held statements to make. Yet there is plenty of proof R. Puddicombe to back them up. If you are sick and suffer, J. N. Puddicombe is, if you have tried the medical profession and failed to be cured, come to us. Ninety-eight per cent of the people that come to the Chiropractors are made well, and this notwithstanding the fact that 75 per cent of these same people have been given up by the medical profession. Call for an examination and advice in regard to your troubles. Even though slight, they may be nature's danger signals of serious ailments.

New York, Aug. 24.—Behind a petition for a pardon for Harry C. Ross, actor and stage manager of the Gurrick theater at the time he shot his wife, Belle, to death, in September, 1892, which has just been sent to Governor Hughes, is the signed, just a story of a mother's sense of justice that has overcome the mother's shielding love of a daughter's name.
Mrs. Jennie C. Proctor, who lives at 144 West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, mother of the woman who was shot, is urging the pardon, because, she asserts, she knows Ross's crime was caused by his wife's indiscretions.

Came Near Being State Capital.
Perhaps Newville is best known as an early rival of Madison as the seat of the state government. In November, 1836, when the territorial leg-

upon the site for a permanent capital, Newville was prominent among other candidates and was beaten only after a struggle that lasted two days, and deliberate, but there hung over it for long the scandal of a suspected pur-

Its Glory Only a Memory.
The glory of the place seems to be wholly in the past, however. The lit-ly, Christian young man. On May 15, 1907, he was united in marriage to reside. After a brief stay there they lived for a time in Elida, New Mexico

PRETTY WEDDING IN VILLAGE OF MILTON
Miss Mina Bahcock Wedded to William Bennett of Lima Yesterday at High Noon.
(Special to this Gazette.)
Milton, Aug. 23.—At high noon today, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E.
S. Bahcock in this village, occurred the marriage of Miss Mina Bahcock, their youngest daughter, to William Bennett, son of O. W. Bennett of Lima. The wedding was most important, only the immediate relatives and a few friends being present. At the stroke of twelve the young couple,
who had been receiving the guests,
walked unattended into the parlor
where they were married by the Rev.
Dr. J. C. Randolph, who used the ceremony. At the close of the ceremony the bride sang the old English ballad, "Hollo me of all those endearing young charms." After the event a three-course wedding breakfast was served and then amid showers of rice and good wishes the bride and groom were whisked away in an automobile to Delavan Lake, where they will spend two weeks in camp life, after which they will reside upon Mr. Bennett's farm southeast of Milton. The bride was dressed in chiffon mousseline trimmed with hand embroidery and lace. The hand decorations were green and gold.
